BUILDING
WORK
UPDATE

If you have been following our building restoration story you may recall that the lintel, the steel beam over the front doors on which the marble and granite rest, exhibits heavy rust and rust jacking. This is the primary cause of the cracks in the granite and marble over the entry doors.

We consulted with two independent engineers who carefully examined the lintel and front facade. We wanted to be sure we had the best advice to make the most well informed decision. It was determined that the existing lintel does not meet the requirements to support the existing load. Our options are to repair the lintel or to replace it. After careful consideration, it was decided the best course was to replace the lintel. This decision was based on a number of factors:

- Replacement is only nominally more expensive than repair and will result in a better fix
- Shoring of the building is required for either option
- The number of closed days will be about the same (a week or less) for either option
- The new lintel will be put in place from outside the building. To repair the lintel, the work would be done from the inside which requires additional removal and subsequent restoration of interior walls
- The repair option would result in a protrusion in the lobby wall to accommodate the repair. This would have to be camouflaged in some way
- The replacement lintel will not be visible when the work is finished

Our goal is to have the lintel replacement work significantly completed before our summer programs start. There are a lot of different trades and schedules that have to align for that to happen but we're hoping.

The roof work is almost completed. Good news! The work came in under what we had budgeted, the result of unused allowances and contingencies. The credit will just about cover the lintel replacement work!

For the last several years Agi Kadar has been helping many Reed Library patrons feel better, be stronger, look younger and live longer through her simple movement classes. First given in the library and now extremely popular on the library's Zoom, Agi's classes continue to be one of our most well attended programs.

If you have been attending her classes for years or want to learn more about what Agi does, stop by her new studio on Saturday May 14 and say hello. Details are below:
